PETROLEUM "VASELINE" JELLY.

"VASELINE" differs from the imitations offered as substitutes, in that it is made from a different base (American Crude Petroleum) and by a different process, and no acids are used in its manufacture. It is not a distillate, contains no paraffine, is not crystalline in its structure, and does not separate upon cooling, after being heated indefinitely. It is simply a concentrated Jelly of Petroleum, purified by repeated filtrations through bone black.

To compare "Vaseline" with a distillate of Petroleum is equivalent to testing the quality of butter by experimenting with cheese.

CAUTION.—The word "VASELINE" was originated by, and is registered all over the world as the Trade Mark of, this Company for their Emollient, Remedial, Toilet, and other preparations of Petroleum; and the Trade are cautioned against using the said word in connection with any goods not manufactured by us.

Reference is asked to notice of judgment obtained by this Company against infringers of their Trade Word, "Vaseline," published in The Chemist and Druggist of December 15, 1884, and previously.

Also to the Circular in January issue (facing page 164), which gives the exact style of the genuine packages of the Medicinal, Toilet, and Household Preparations.
